You come because you WANT to...

2 days in JUNE

A little birdie told me this is the best conference for the money!

Richard Allington, University of Tennessee, will deliver Friday's keynote lecture: "Is RTI Our Last Best Hope?" for meeting the needs of all learners.

Peter Brunn, author of the hot new book, The Lesson Planning Book, will conduct a full-day workshop for K-4 teachers on Saturday. Participants will receive a free copy of his book! Before taking his current position as director of professional development for a non-profit organization, Peter was a staff developer for Teachers College and taught in the Bronx.

World-renowned author, illustrator, and storyteller

ASHLEY BRYAN will present on Friday and sign his many books. Don't miss this chance to meet Ashley, winner of numerous awards including the Arbuthnot and Coretta Scott King awards!

Nancy Boyles is a teacher's teacher. Her presentations are practical and packed with information that can be taken to the classroom for immediate implementation. This year, her conference sessions will include "Teaching All Students to Write High-Quality Answers to Open-Ended Comprehension Questions".

The Missouri Sisters: Eryca Neville, A University of Missouri professor and her sister Jonette Ford, a classroom teacher, are a duo which believes in making Social Studies come alive for students.

Reacquaint yourself with Rick Shelton who is an authority on writing & "Presenter Extraordinaire". He will conduct a full-day workshop for 4-12 teachers on Saturday. Participants will receive a free copy of his book, Write Where You Are.

This year each day has a different format. Friday there's a keynote speaker with break out sessions. Saturday spend the day with a workshop presenter for your students' age range--for in depth study and conversations --and receive a book by the presenter.

JUNE 18 AND 19 FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Full registration includes a boxed lunch both days and a book from the Saturday presenter of your choice.
