

Heartbroken!

Don't cry! With a little loving care and a good vocabulary, this heart will mend. Each word on the list below contains the Latin root for "heart," cor. Look for the matching definition on the broken pieces and write the word in the blank.

accord
accordion
discord
concord concordance

courage cordial encourage discourage record

Now cut along the bold lines and put this heart back together. Glue the pieces to a sheet of construction paper and look over your words until you know them—by heart!

Love Letters

There are thousands of ways to say, "I love you." Ten of them are given below. Your job is to read each love letter and fill in the missing vocabulary word.

1. Valentine, my heart's like an _____
Squeeze it and it will make heart-felt harmonies for you!
2. Your smiles _____ me.
Am I right in thinking that you'll be my Valentine?
3. Valentine, I'm scared and shy.
It takes all my _____ just to say, "Hi."
4. It's now official, Valentine!
This Treaty of Love proclaims
That a state of _____ Exists between the two of us!
5. Listen carefully, Valentine, and you'll hear that
Our hearts beat with one _____.
6. The book of my love for you is so huge, Valentine,
You'll need a _____!
7. Put this in the _____ book, Valentine.
I'm the world's greatest lover—of you!
8. I'm sorry, Valentine. It's time to make peace.
There should be no _____ between you and me.
9. Here's some cake, here's some pie,
Here's some cookies, too.
Valentine, can you tell—
I feel very _____ towards you?
10. No more frowns please, Valentine.
It's too _____.

Now choose three of your favorite sayings above and make them into Valentine cards. Make certain that your illustrations match the meanings of the words.