After finishing the Daddy-Daughter Dance Flier, I realized that there were still a number of unanswered questions regarding the event. I hope this clarifies things.

What if it is not possible for dad to come to the event? The dance is a great opportunity for fathers to spend time with their girls. Coming from a fatherless home myself, I realize that sometimes dad is not available. Girls are definitely welcome to come with their grandpas, uncles, step-dads, or other special person.. Come and have fun!

Can siblings not attending A. Montoya, come? Yes, dad is welcome to bring all his daughters with the reduced ticket price of $3. ($7 for the first and $3 for all other daughters.)

Is this a fundraiser? No, the ticket proceeds will be to pay for the event.

How will the dance tickets be distributed? For registration forms turned in by Wednesday, February 8th, the tickets will be sent home Thursday, February 9th. If registration forms are returned Thursday or Friday of that week, the tickets are to be picked up at the dance.

Can tickets be bought at the door? Yes, but the carnations must be pre-ordered (and pre-paid for) by Wednesday, February 1st.

Where/when do I pick up my carnation? The carnations will be handed out as families leave the dance.

How will the photos be passed out? Photos will need to be paid for at the dance. When ready for disbursement, they will be sent home in students' folders.

A tie, really? Yes men, a tie. Obviously, dads will not be denied admission if they are without (this isn't Almack's, after all). We do want the night to be special, though.

Will my dad like the music? The DJ has promised a variety of music. At least one is bound to remind him of his glory days. There might be a couple, though, that will inspire holding up the wall and watching his daughter jive with her friends. Not every man wants to “shake it up” to Taylor Swift.

What about a Mother/Son activity? We have a Mother/Son Adventure Night in the works. Fencing, rock wall climbing, marshmallow blowing are some ideas. Check the February Monte's News for the March activity..
