

Bob the Frog, and Fred the Fireman

Once upon a time in the city of Wisconsin, Bob the frog was driving a new car around the neighborhood. He crashed, so fireman Fred had to come and save him. When he got there he realized that he forgot his supplies to cover up Bob's wounds. The oil leaked from the car, and it caused a fire. Luckily he put out the fire and saved Bob.

Fred covered up Bob's cuts with a clothes pin he found in his pocket. Everybody was cheering for Fred, and they were so thankful that he came fast enough. All of Bob's frog friends were there to see if he was okay, and he turned out to be just found.

After a little while, Bob threw a huge party for Fred thanking him for all he has done for him. They celebrated with Hershey kisses and pizza from Tonelli's. At the party, they played games and danced to music all night long. Everybody had a wonderful time at the Party.
