

Halloween Happiness!

In the town of Bog, a dog named Fuzzy, and a bug named Bugsly were getting ready to trick-or-treat. Before they left Fuzzy's house, they looked out the window to find big orange fluffy snow flakes, covering everything. Disappointment grew on Fuzzy's and Bugsly's faces, for this meant they couldn't go trick-or-treating.

Suddenly Bugsly had an amazing idea! He told Fuzzy that they could have a Halloween party, even though they weren't able to go out trick-or-treating, they should make the best of Halloween! Fuzzy and Bugsly's faces were soon filled with excitement.

There was one problem, what were they going to do at this party? Fuzzy thought to do the limbo, but they didn't have a stick...so Bugsly suggested using a straw! Bugsly came up with the idea to bob for apples only, they didn't have apples. So Fuzzy found chocolate eyes they could use in stead of apples.

After their Halloween party was over, Fuzzy said to Bugsly, "I'm glad we had this party. We made the best of not being able to go trick-or-treating! This was truly a Halloween full of Happiness!"
