Once upon a time, in the city of Heavenly Angel Ville in the clouds, Rose the angel was painting a picture of her mom's special pineapple vase to give to her. It was a week before Christmas, and Rose was eating salad when all of a sudden, she spilled dressing all over her dress! Certainly what a mess this was. Rose shouted, "Oh no!" as she stumbles into the vase. Suddenly, vase fell and shattered into a hundred pieces! Rose gasped, what was she going to do?

Suddenly, she heard a window break and a big bull came flying in. He was wearing a black and red uniform with a glue bottle backpack, and the name "Elmer" printed on his name tag. Elmer pulled out a bottle of glue and said cheerfully, "I heard the vase break, but I came to save you! This glue can fix anything!" Rose took the bottle of glue excitedly, and squirted it all over the pieces of the broken vase. Magically, the pieces of the vase began to put their selves back together, until it was her mom's pineapple vase again!

"You wouldn't even tell it was ever broken!" Rose shouted with a smile. Rose was truly amazed, and thanked Elmer for the glue. Elmer flew back out the window, but before he did, he poured glue over the window pieces from when he had come in. Rose happily sat back down, and continued to paint her pineapple vase painting. After a while, Rose's mom came home and Rose said she had a surprise for her. Rose held out her painting, it looked exactly like the pineapple vase in real life! All colorful and vibrant, Rose's mom had tears in her eyes as she looked at it. "It's...it's beautiful." Rose's mom whispers. "But...what is that on your dress?" Rose completely forgot about the stain from before she broke the vase. Rose became silent, and she sure has a story to tell.
