

The Captured Clown

One day the clown Mr. Poppins was walking to the circus for work. Minding his own business Mr. Poppins thought nothing was going wrong. Everything was normal. Then Mrs. Poppins noticed something strange in the sky. The top was lit up and the bottom of the ship was blue. It was staying still while floating in the air. As he was walking something from the ship dropped as quick as light and captured Mr. Poppins. Next thing he knew Mr. Poppins felt himself flying through the air, but not able to move. He eventually stopped in the ship and his feet planted on the ground. He again was able to move and he noticed unfamiliar, strange looking people staring at him. He realized they were aliens. He didn't know what to do. The aliens told the clown that they thought he was going to try and take over the world because the clown looked different from all the other humans. While they were speaking they heard a beeping noise coming from the control panel and there battery to fly the ship was running low. They didn't know what to do. They started to panic and think of a way to escape. Mr. Poppins pulled out a chip he had in his pocket that had been given to him by a magician and he was told that every dot on it, he was given a wish. He used one of his wishes to escape the ship before it broke down. Mr. Poppins got out safely and went on his way to work keeping his adventure to himself.
