

The Night Before Halloween

Once upon a time, there was a freaky witch and a little troll. They lived in a house on a shelf, but their owners did not know that they were actually real. If you didn't look closely, you wouldn't notice that they were actually alive. They lived on the shelf with a peanut sports fan, a heart shaped box, a deck of cards, a silver frog, and a joker Christmas ornament.

The joker was the king of the shelf, but he was a mean ruler. He made everyone do what he said. On the night before Halloween, they decided that they were done listening to the joker. They made a plan to take the joker off the throne.

To trap the joker, they put him in the box while he was sleeping. The witch put a spell on him to keep him in the box until he did what they said. After a week, the joker finally apologized to them. They let the joker be the ruler again, as long as he was nice. They all lived happily ever after.
