

SFdS Kindergarteners Release Chrysalis

Spring has sprung, and the SFdS kindergarteners are anxiously waiting for their chrysalis to open. Each year, the students watch as caterpillars enter their chrysalis which represents Christ's death and placement in the tomb. Just as Christ rose from the dead to new life, so the butterfly emerges as a symbol of new life. The students don brightly colored butterfly headpieces and butterfly rings and sit outside while Ms. Prihoda tries to lure the butterflies out one at a time. Everyone tries to be very quiet and still in the hope that a butterfly will be attracted to the vibrant colors and land on someone. It's a wonderful event anxiously anticipated by all.
