

St. Francis de Sales Gets Pink

SFdS students and faculty were “decked out” in pink and received pink ribbons during Breast Cancer Awareness week from October 19th – 21st. One of the highlights was the Locks of Love haircutting on Tuesday. During the past year, Allison Mendoza, Annabelle Mendoza, Amanda Quiroz grew their hair at least 10” in length, and in a special ceremony before the entire school, Principal Diane Wooten gave each girl a haircut for a donation to the Locks of Love organization, which makes wigs for cancer patients receiving chemotherapy. Throughout the week, donations were also accepted for The Rose, a non-profit breast cancer organization providing mammography screening, diagnosis, and early access to treatment. Anyone making a donation became eligible for a drawing for two different “Pink Baskets,” which included pink items donated by the faculty and staff. Pink Week is a special time for our school to celebrate breast cancer survivors, especially those on our faculty who have fought and conquered this disease.
